"Auntie" has, of course, his unmistakable stamp: a strong vibration that takes us on a voyage of soul and house, and the brand has been developed in an urban environment that is as universal as it is contemporary. His song "Auntie" was written while he was in Jersey, a city where he joined forces with LVNDVN in composition and Waresdanny as a producer.

The production embodies the expressive concerns with which Driftwood. has been captivating us over the years: meticulous attention to detail, an aesthetic universe all its own, and a refinement that encompasses a feeling of soul and house.

In Driftwood.'s own words: "My work creates a narrative that moves between reality and the ethereal paradigms within my imagination. My goal is for art to provoke thoughts and emotions in listeners, creating an overall aesthetic where music and visual components work together as a single artistic piece." It is from this perspective that "Auntie" begins. We invite you to check it out!
